

We fixed the part of golf no one bothered to Hint: it's not the ball and it's certainly not you

The earth is round. The hole is round. You play a round. The ball is round. And, you're supposed to hit the round ball with a flat-faced putter. Therein lies the rub. Have you thought for a minute how many different angles there are, not only on the approach but when you do strike the ball? Maddening. We've fixed that.

Putter.One is the world's first serious round-face putter. When you strike the ball, you'll be hitting the sweet spot for a true roll, and more precise targeting towards the hole, every time. True roll equals accurate putting. Fewer putts equals a lower score—that simple! It's not you. It's not the ball. It's the putter. Yours is flat and it doesn't have to be.
